OVERVIEW & OBJECTIVES

Basic English Course I & II (BEC) at all levels are structured around Reading, Writing, Listening, and Speaking. Students develop these four basic skills on various topics under the English instruction of a Japanese lecturer. They are able to gradually work toward the "Learning in English" stage while studying BEC as well as CEP (Communicative English Program) When students complete both courses, they should have the English competence necessary to study at university, such as attending lectures, taking notes, writing reports and essays, expressing their thoughts, engaging in discussions, etc. BEC, therefore are designed to learn English for "Learning in English."

BEC is an important introduction to CEP and Intensive English Course, which at NUIS, takes place in a stimulating learning environment. It is divided into six levels on the basis of the results of the placement test (TOEIC BRIDGE). All the freshmen will make more effective progress by learning at the appropriate competence level. Each small class comprised of a total numbering within 20 students maximum, allows students to receive personalized attention from a lecturer, and the encouragement to recognize their goals for the future and the means through which to achieve them.

It also includes "Self-directed Learning" as a supplement to classroom learning. Through the SL carried out as part of this class, students also acquire the ability to take responsibility for their own studies. This experience in BEC I helps them become proactive and autonomous language learners who are capable of effectively learning the foreign languages they choose as part of basic education, or the language they will be using while studying abroad.

OVERVIEW & OBJECTIVES

Basic English Course I & II (BEC) at all levels are structured around Reading, Writing, Listening, and Speaking. Students develop these four basic skills on various topics under the English instruction of a Japanese lecturer. They are able to gradually work toward the "Learning in English" stage while studying BEC as well as CEP (Communicative English Program) When students complete both courses, they should have the English competence necessary to study at university, such as attending lectures, taking notes, writing reports and essays, expressing their thoughts, engaging in discussions, etc. BEC, therefore are designed to learn English for "Learning in English."

BEC is an important introduction to CEP and Intensive English Course, which at NUIS, takes place in a stimulating learning environment. It is divided into six levels on the basis of the results of the placement test (TOEIC BRIDGE). All the freshmen will make more effective progress by learning at the appropriate competence level. Each small class comprised of a total numbering within 20 students maximum, allows students to receive personalized attention from a lecturer, and the encouragement to recognize their goals for the future and the means through which to achieve them.

It also includes "Self-directed Learning" as a supplement to classroom learning. Through the SL carried out as part of this class, students also acquire the ability to take responsibility for their own studies. This experience in BEC I helps them become proactive and autonomous language learners who are capable of effectively learning the foreign languages they choose as part of basic education, or the language they will be using while studying abroad.
